

How was Goethe's view of the Forces of Nature?

By: Joud Essa
Mika Braun
Gustav Thomas

Goethe's Garden House

The cities were quiet until suddenly there was a rumble. The people were frightened and, when they looked out of their windows, they saw it, the volcano erupted.

As the volcano Vesuvius erupted in Italy, there were very bad consequences for the country.

Many were afraid for their children, for their parents and for their lives

Still the small stones rattled around us, Still the ashes trickled.

Oh no the harvest is destroyed!

Help us!

I think natural disasters are very bad because they injure people and destroy very beautiful buildings.

